The hole is a dry mineral bath site covered by leaves and dirt, Johnson explained.

Hats Are Prettier Than Ever at The Easter Hat Parade in Beautiful Jennis Club Garden

The hat that must have started out as a leaf covering to keep rain and sun off the head has evolved through the years, and reached a peak at the Easter Hat Parade at the Tennis Club Sunday evening.

through the years, and reached a peak at the Easter Hat Parade at the Tennis Club Sunday evening.

Actually several of the winning hats were more nearly in the head fress than the millinery class. ..., they were so elaborate. The two hats that tied for best in the theme class, worn by Mrs. John McClure and Mrs. W. B. Malouf were both masterpieces of construction, and both had the enormous open Easter Egg as the central object. Mrs. McClure's, which she had made herself, was called "Easter Morning", and was rimmed with the delicate white ribbon roses, which she creates. Mrs. Malouf's, called "Angel of Easter", featured a beautiful pastel-colored angel. The similarity of design, which resulted in a tie award, came as a surprise to both women, who have yied for honors in the hat parade for many years. Mrs. Earl Henderson, with an Easter rabbit and flowers on a pale green creation, was runner-up in this theme classification.

Mrs. Hortense Murray, in a costume that matched her huge petunia that loom so gayly aout the Tennis Club, and won the Most Beaufiful award against stiff competition. Mrs. Godfrey Kings feather rimmed hat, with fre sh bougainvillea piled on top, Mrs. Ed Robbins' white rose creation. Bertine Treat's elegant lavendar and purple flower toque, Jolie Gabor spink concoction, with strands of pearls woven among the flowers, and ribbons, m ade the judging difficult.

In the Zany hat classification there could be only one decision, and the judges gave the nod to Mrs. John Gabriel of Fullerton, whose huge nest-hat, held a live.

DEAR DOLLAR: When a child is given a dollar a week with in-structions to bank it all—that is not an "allowance." An allowance (if only a quarter a week) is money which the person is allowed to spend or save, as he chooses. If children are to learn how to budget, save and spend money proper-ly, they should be given the op-portunity to handle it themselves.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that not?

DEAR ABBY: I met a guy in civilian clothes and fell for him. I found out later he was a Marine. I like him much better in civilian clothing. When he shows up in his uniform it spoils everything for me because I just don't like him in that uniform. To tell the truth it brings back memories about the time of Quantico, Virginia, and I'd rather forget it. Should I ask him to wear civilian clothes all the time or not?
